

The Perfect Community

As a group, brainstorm and create a "perfect" community, giving it a name, a system of government (described), a physical description, and an account of how its people spend their days. Write down how that community would change and grow. What roles would history and memories of painful events play in the growth of the community? What would have to be added to our own society in order to make it perfect? What would be lost in this quest for perfection?

Create a Google slides, a Prezi, a Keynote, or some other presentation form to present this information, using visuals.
