

Little Red Riding Hood Annotations: HW

Due: _____

You will be analyzing Little Red Riding Hood based on some elements we just learned about in our Glossary of Literary Terms.

Specifically, you'll analyze the following, which should be highlighted in your glossary:

1. Protagonist
2. Antagonist
3. Foil
4. Mood
5. Exposition
6. Rising Action
7. Climax
8. Conflict
9. Falling Action
10. Resolution

In the story itself, please highlight and label next to where you found them.

On a separate sheet of paper, number 1-10, corresponding to each of the ten elements you are to find. Write in two complete sentences where the elements is in the story (or who he or she is) and why you think this is so.

For "foil," there is none. Please suggest someone who you think would be a great addition to this story who would "foil" Little Red Riding Hood.

Example: 1. The protagonist of the story is Red. Red is the protagonist because the major conflict happens to her in the story.

Little Red Riding Hood Annotations: HW

Due: _____

You will be analyzing Little Red Riding Hood based on some elements we just learned about in our Glossary of Literary Terms.

Specifically, you'll analyze the following, which should be highlighted in your glossary:

1. Protagonist
2. Antagonist
3. Foil
4. Mood
5. Exposition
6. Rising Action
7. Climax
8. Conflict
9. Falling Action
10. Resolution

In the story itself, please highlight and label next to where you found them.

On a separate sheet of paper, number 1-10, corresponding to each of the ten elements you are to find. Write in two complete sentences where the elements is in the story (or who he or she is) and why you think this is so.

For "foil," there is none. Please suggest someone who you think would be a great addition to this story who would "foil" Little Red Riding Hood.

Example: 1. The protagonist of the story is Red. Red is the protagonist because the major conflict happens to her in the story.

